EXTON, Pa., April 12, 2007 – Architectural Concepts LLP, a full-service architectural and interior design firm located in Exton, Pa. and Lancaster, Pa., announces that the construction of Exeter Ridge Corporate Center is now underway.

Architectural Concepts provided architectural, interior design, structural, and tenant planning services for this first class office building located on the corner of Business Route 422 and East Neversink Road. The ribbon glass design will allow for great views from this prominent hillside site. “The tower elements in combination with the mirrored green glass and stone are designed to accentuate this long horizontal plateau of a site some 20 feet above the road,” says Bruce Weinstein, AIA, Partner and Project Architect at Architectural Concepts LLP. “Our client’s priority was to raise the bar with respect to suburban office buildings designed in this area and desired a real show piece.”

This 38,000 square foot Corporate Center will be occupied primarily by C-21 realtors and NAI Keystone Commercial & Industrial, LLC and additional space is still available. Design features include elevator service, a common lobby, and substantial off-street lit parking. In addition to the magnificent views, Exeter Ridge Corporate Center has nearby shopping and dining amongst a heavily traveled location.

Burkey Construction is the General Contractor on the project and O’Donnell & Naccarato is the Structural Engineer on record.
